Update:

Hello BJP Community,

Over the weekend, the mayor and governor caused confusion with announcements for schools and businesses reopening/staying closed.

Using their conflicting and any future statements as a guide, BJP administration is meeting this week and next to move forward with our own plan into the future. I will email the entire community by next Friday, April 24th with our extended outlook plan and calendar.

We will be able to safely implement this plan without future confusion from government officials. The email will be Coronavirus Update #9, which will also be posted on our website, and changes will be made to the calendar once finalized by the end of next week.

This Friday, you will get an email expanding in two small ways the Distance Learning Handbook. Everything will still be run through links on the Homework Pad and on BJP's Google platform.

If you have any other questions, please let me know. Otherwise, look for that email communication in Coronavirus Update #9 next week.

Happy Easter!
